

The life of a soldier in hashems army

my last thread was called starting over after 37 days and the one before that was called this time im in it to win it.

very quickly. im 16. got into this at 11 years old. always said ill stop after my bar mitzvah. in 8th grade i talked to girls. in summer going into 9th i decided to stop talking to them because i felt guilty about m*****. skipping ahead. here i am now as an addict. a teenage addict trying to get close to hashem.

the only way i can do it is with his help, without hashem i am helpless.

so here is what we are doing. we are DAVENING 3 times a day. not saying the words but talking to hashem. if possible, talk to hashem often.

filling my day with as much torah as possible.and maintining kedusha. thursday nights i will try to exercise to get rid of some extra hormone buildup. and get rid of sexual energy.

there is so much more to do, but this is the main outline.

today was day 1. it was good, i was careful with my eyes. i learned a lot. i feel really good. i just decided. by next schoolyear, going into 12th grade, i WILL know how to learn. im still pushing myself in shiur. but out of shiur, i am taking a jastrow (dictionary) and learning torah. i am learning the entire masechta bekiyus that we are doing in school. we are only going to cover 20 or so dafim of gemorah so i am doing thr whole thing. over the vacations when i have more time i will try to learn how to learn be'iyun. but i first need to get down the basics.

anyways. i feel really pumped to keep going and really make it to 90 days this time. and with hashems help and only with his help will i be able to make it.

You could just tell her the truth.

"Hello, I've actually been trying to be more careful lately about mingling with girls who I'm not married to. I hope you can understand. However, I forgot myself when I saw you the other day and couldn't help but give a honk and say hello. I hope you understand, but I'd really prefer right now not to get more involved than that. Glad that you're doing well, and I wish you all the best."

How's that (or something to that effect)?

i like Eye's idea and it is not Hashem giving you a chance to be polite about it, rather that idea is a product of the International Lust Think Tank, which produces excuses and justifications using cheap labor in Third World countries in unsafe working conditions.

you will regret talking to her and it will make you unhappy if you start up a texting convo with her.

another idea, which is not as truthful but might be easier to implement is if she texts maybe ignore the first text. if she texts again, wait a day and then reply that your phone is acting erratic and not all texts go through. then keep pushing it off till she loses interest you want to be a good clean person and not go down the slippery slope

keep on trucking

Put your cell phone infront of your car's tires, and go for another drive.

It's called going over your minutes.

Don't drive the same route as last time.

uh oh.

not that eye's idea was intrinsically bad.

each solution is custom tailored to the specific situation and individual.

uh oh that you sound like your not :D with what you did.

today is day 13.

and no girls either

this morning i was successful in tapping into a power greater than me (aka hashem) to help me with my lusting. IYh i will be able to continue doing that through TODAY (although tomorrow we are eating at a place where last time i had issues with shmiras eynayim, im not ready to worry about that until tomorrow.)

kinda.

she said, "ok" when i told her.

but last night she texted me "liyla tov" (i was already sleeping so i didnt respond, and i just deleted the text cus i dont have the number saved and i know that if i have the text, it would be to difficult to resist) she probably just wasted to say goodnight hoping i would text back and then she would start talking to me. but i didnt text back.
