Today was a hard day for me. I almost fell three times, but I'm still going. I will update in this thread.

It is men singing and it is somewhat of an angry song. I will send it to you by email. My post says it was edited by you. What did you edit? I looked through it but can't seem to find it.

Oh, I just put breaks between the first three sentences to make it easier to understand what you meant by "I'll admit it". At first i thought you meant "Things are going well here I'll admit it".

Yes I got it. Kind of "angry" though, like you said, but a good Moshol nonetheless. Thanks!

One more thing gue. Do you know what the song immediately following that one is on their album? You'd never guess. The title of the next song on the album which that song comes from is 'Breaking the Habit'.

Hashem is speaking to you...The Ba'al Shem Tov taught that Hashem speaks to us through the most mundane things, even goyim.

I am so happy to see the progress of so many people. I didn't post in my thread for almost a couple days and my thread went down to the 8th one in the Wall of Honor forum, because there are seven holy fighters with activity in their threads within that time. The more people we have working together, the easier it becomes for all of us. I really believe this is true, even though the actual battles are fought by the individuals on their own. When a soldier goes out to war knowing that when he comes home he has his mother and father, his siblings, and his wife and children waiting for him, he fights with more strength and determination. I feel that is the way it goes on this forum. If anyone reading this has not yet made a thread in the wall of honor forum, do it NOW and join the army! We need all of you!

The middle of next week will be 10 weeks for me!!

Have a good shabbos everyone :D

I had a wet dream this morning. I'm taking encouragement from this. When I woke up, I didn't remember anything sexual. Rather, I thought that I had failed and would have to start my count over. When I realized that I hadn't done it myself, I felt very relieved. It's amazing to me that even in my sleep this site is on my mind, and I am encouraged by that.

Ashrecha Ano. You appear in today's Chizuk e-mail!

You are doing so well that your body is rebelling. That is a very good sign. And yes, it is so true. The more we struggle to stay clean, the more it becomes part of our subconscious. Even in our dreams we will start to find ourselves trying to stay clean!

Guardureyes,

I am so happy to see the growth of this forum. When I came here, the Y"H nearly succeeded in preventing me from joining because the forum didn't look very active. Now look at it!! The wall of honor really did the trick. This place is just pulsing with activity now, but it needs to be expanded. The amount of people on here now is only a drop in the bucket compared to the amount of people who SHOULD be here. I envy your olam haba guard :D

You know, the whole "Wall of Honor" section - which has become the most popular - I started because of you! It's no wonder you are doing so well. All the hundreds of Malachim created by the Teshuvah on this section of the forum, are surrounding you and helping you stay holy! :D

That reminds me, you are (almost?) up to 70 days - level 6!!

70 days tomorrow!

Today was my first tough day in a while. I felt the urge stronger than I have in a very long time, and I gave in a little. But I pulled myself out completely before anything serious happened. In the first month I would routinely come right to the edge and then stop. This was very minor in comparison, but I'm glad I was able to resist. I thought of all the people rooting for me here, and of be holy, and how much I would regret it if I gave in, and I just couldn't do it. I got up and left, and it has pretty much faded by now.

What a great note on which you can enter day 70. Keep it up and be strong! The Yetzer is taking a pummeling as you resist his schemes!
