Looking to Hire someone for GYE Data-Entry
Posted by the.guard - 24 Jan 2010 16:00

I recently hired someone in India to do "data-entry" into our new website: www.guardyoureyes.org. He charges only $2.50 an hour. Basically, all that is involved is copying the peices of the daily e-mails and pasting them into our Word-Press blog into the proper categories. Like "Tip of the Day", "Torah thought of the day", "12-Step attitude", etc...
There are 10 categories on our website, and it's not a hard job. The price is cheep, but the thing is, he is an Indian and the things we discuss in our daily e-mails are all Chinese to him, even though he reads English Ok. I was trying to "train" him into the job, but I think that no matter how much I tell him, he will get a lot of things wrong and still not know what category things belong in... I was thinking that it would be a lot better if someone on this forum would do it, for a few reasons.

1) Someone in our community would understand much better what category things belong.

2) Someone would also be gaining while working by reading over the material a bit.

3) Someone here could be getting a big zechus in doing this, while this Indian guy doesn't get anything from it.

4) Someone with better English skills might find minor mistakes and fix them when necessary.

If anyone here wants to take this job of a half hour a day, we would be willing to pay for it. I would also train you into the job through Skype and ShowMyPC.

To take the job I need a few things.

1) Computer proficiency

2) Decent writing skills

3) At least 3 months on GYE and reading the daily e-mails (to understand the style)

4) Good recovery (not perfect, but well on the way... i.e. not someone who is gonna give up and leave one day, just like that)

5) Someone very trustworthy (since passwords to our site will be necessary)

6) A commitment of at least half an hour a day, 4 times a week (preferably 5). Unless, of course, you are sick or on vacation...

If you are interested, please post here or send me an e-mail. Thanks!

I have been waiting for an opportunity give back to the GYE community. I dont know if I would be the right man for the job, but hey I could try. And unfortunately I dont negotiate my salary. My agent tells me the only price I work for is a total of $0, thats ZERO dollars! If for whatever reason you decide to take me for the job that is my salary, non-negotiable.

Have a great day!

Ah. The jokes at GYE are wonderful.

Really just a bunch of kids, aren't we.

Hey you dont need to fill them with your feet. You can sit in them too if need be!
Need to try to check in more often!

This position is now open again. Yiddle2 got more into learning lately and no longer has the time (about 20 minutes a day, 4 X a week).
